Summer of '73: Princetonians Mourn Erosion of the American Way

What's wrong with America today?

TOWN TOPICS asked this broad question, at random, of a score of people who live or work in Princeton to sample the tenor of the feelings of Americans about their country today. Side comments ranged from "nothing" to "you could write a book about what's wrong with America."

But if it's true, as one woman said, "When you think of America today, you think of it in terms of government . . ." then only those wearing the rosiest of rose-colored glasses could deny in the face of Watergate, the lying about the bombing of Cambodia and the wheat deals with Russia that there has not been a diminishing of the American way.

Indeed, most of the replies centered about the government: inflation, permissiveness, lack of communication, misdirected priorities and its highest embodiment—President Nixon. Nathan Brody, a psychologist who lives on Shady Brook Lane responded, "In one sentence: We have an evil president."

Chas Fremuth of Alexander Street, a Princeton University student majoring in creative writing, cited "President Nixon and corruption in high places—and the fact that marijuana is not legalized. "Anyone," he explained, "over 18 can drink and not get arrested. Kids would be a lot happier—or at least feel less cheated — if marijuana were legalized. At least they wouldn't be able to say there was a double standard."

His wife, Lynn, an assistant in the rare books department at Firestone Library pointed her finger at "Too much talk by the government and not enough action in the right places. Money is being channeled from our taxes into places where the people don't want to spend it." She continued: "I think most people were opposed to the space program, the war in Indochina and the wheat deals with Russia. People seemed to be lulled into thinking that America is the best place when it could be better."

The country — and Nixon — had their defenders. "I don't go along with the doom and gloom philosophy," said Richard Sichel of Fairless Hills, an employee in the trust department of the Princeton Bank and Trust. "Of course things could be better. But I think the media play it up beyond anything that is wrong. They try to play up anything wrong associated with Nixon while they don't pay any attention to the good things he's done—which far outshines the bad. I feel if a Democrat were involved, it would be played up more as 'cute' than criminal." Then he added, smiling: "Yes, I'm a little biased . . . there are a few Conservatives left."

Joseph Gerrity of Hamilton Square, an employee of the Princeton Gallup Poll—which in its most recent survey reported President Nixon's popularity at an all time low—refused to go with the tide.

Rent Leveling Passes over Landlords' Protests

After taking another barrage of criticism from Princeton landlords, Borough Council passed into law Tuesday night the rent leveling ordinance.

The law provides that rent increases for certain units in the Borough may not exceed limitations determined by the rise in consumer price index, and by any tax increases or capital improvements made to the units, added to a base rent as of May 1, 1973. The law establishes a Rent Leveling Board to administer the details of the provisions, handle complaints and resolve conflicts.

For all the squabbling back and forth between Council and a vocal and sometimes derisive handful of landlords in the audience of 25, one point of agreement emerged: The law is fairly complicated, and several technical questions remain unsettled.

All Councilmen voted for the ordinance except Thomas J. Cawley and Arthur P. Morgan, who was absent but had made known his dissatisfaction with the measure.

Passed unanimously was a companion anti-reprisal ordinance, designed to protect tenants who take complaints to the Rent Leveling Board.

No Freeze. Alfred Kahn, a real estate manager, said the law might force some landlords to raise rents more than they would really want. Stanley Dohm, a landlord, worried that he might not be able to raise rents sufficiently to cover his increased costs.

Councilman Robert S. Powell cited the conflicting testimony and said, "All we are trying to do is level out increases and tie them to capital improvements and inflation. We haven't frozen rents at a constant level as was done in New York City."

At that point Robert B. Cook, in the rental business with his wife, Sheila, interjected, "The problem is that most landlords don't understand what the law says." Added Mr. Dohm: "You need a Philadelphia lawyer."

Several points may be clarified at next Tuesday's regular Council meeting, when amendments to this ordinance will be introduced. Because of timing problems, the amendments could not be discussed this week, according to Mayor Robert W. Cawley.

Postponed Increases. The most significant amendment would answer the objection raised by Mr. Kahn. It would allow landlords who choose not to raise a rent by the maximum allowable amount, to claim the maximum increase in determining base rent when negotiating with a new tenant.

Also by next week Mayor Cawley hopes to have hired a part-time assistant, at a salary of $4,300 a year, to provide basic information about the new law. The Rent Leveling Board, consisting of one tenant, one landlord and three persons who are not tenants, landlords or public officials, should also be named by then.

Even simple questions were not always easy to answer at this meeting. Several landlords present had tenants with leases expiring August 31. They wanted to notify them of increases immediately.

Question: In the absence of capital improvements and tax increases, what would be the percent increase in the consumer price index?

Confusion. The answer for a year-long lease beginning in September was 6.5. Thus, such a landlord could raise the rent he charged on May 1 of this year by as much as 6.5 percent — but no more.

Councilwoman Barbara Sigmund however, has introduced an amendment that would change the determination of CPI increases to account for seasonal fluctuations and unusual peaks or valleys in the economy. In this particular case the percentage increase allowed would be only 4.2 per cent.

With only Marian P. Lombardo on her side, Mrs. Sigmund's amendment was voted down. Council majority opinion was that the amendment was a good one, except that it simply further confused the issue.

"That's a victory for us," said Mr. Cook, referring to the fact that in this particular case landlords may impose a greater increase. Mrs. Sigmund replied that the present method of determination may not always favor landlords.

Other Victory. Edmund D. Cook, the realtor, argued that provisions for hardship increases made no consideration of a fair return on investment that a landlord ought to expect from his property.

"I've got to say Ed Cook has a point there," said the Mayor. "In a hardship case we give credit to a guy who is making payments to retire a mortgage, but nothing for the man with his own money tied up in his property."

Throughout the meeting, various landlords snickered at the ordinance and exchanged ideas—some facetious—about how they could create loopholes. One suggested hiking base rents by charging a tenant more than he can pay, then reimbursing him the same amount for services rendered, such as making sure the porch is swept clean.

For the Rent Leveling Board, however, the first order of business before it plugs many loopholes appeared to be explaining the new law in the first place.

RENT LAW EXPLAINED

In Basic Outline. The following questions and answers were supplied by Councilman Robert S. Powell to illustrate the basic principles of the new rent leveling ordinance.

1. What types of rental units does the law cover?

All residential rental units are covered, with the following exceptions: single family homes for rent; any rental unit that is the only residential rental unit in a building (such as a room rented out within someone's home, or a duplex in which only one side is rented); rental units renting for $500 or more per month; units for rent less than five months per year ("seasonal rentals").

Also, student dormitories and other rental housing restricted to employees of the landlord, such as faculty housing and certain church rentals; public housing (such as the Lloyd Terrace apartments); and hotels and motels. All other residential units available for rent within the Borough of Princeton are covered by the law.

2. Can my rent be raised under this law?

Yes, but only according to the provisions of the law. In most cases, the landlord may not increase the rent above increases in the consumer price index. The law also provides for certain increases to cover the costs of new capital improvements, local tax increases, and, in rare cases, financial hardship.

3. Let's be more specific. If my lease expires and is subject to renewal after the law has passed, how will my new rent be calculated?

The new law only sets a ceiling on rent increases, so the new rent still will be a matter of some negotiation between the tenant and landlord; the new rent does not have to increase at all. If the landlord wants an increase, however, he may not exceed an increase as calculated by the following formula:

First, determine the "base rent," which is the rent in effect on May 1, 1973.

Second, determine the "Consumer Price Index increase," which is the increase in the "CPI" for the Philadelphia - Camden region for the following time period: 90 days prior to the start of your present lease, and 90 days prior to the expiration of your present lease.

Third, multiply the "Consumer Price Index increase" times your "base rent," and you will have the maximum dollar increase in base rent for your new lease permitted under this law.

4. Yes, but can't the landlord add to this increase a surcharge for capital improvements and taxes?

This is correct, but only under certain conditions. A landlord may add to the rent a "capital improvement surcharge" if he has made an investment in the property which substantially adds to the value of the services, conditions or equipment of the rental units. Maintenance and repairs do not qualify as capital improvements.

Thus, for example, a $1,000 expenditure which added air conditioning to an apartment could be considered a capital improvement, but the same sum expended for periodic painting or repairs to the plumbing could not. And the landlord is entitled to a "tax surcharge" each year in which local property taxes increase.

5. If my rent was increased recently, just before the law was passed, can I get a rebate?

No. The rent in effect on the date of passage of the law may be continued until your present lease expires.

However, after your present lease expires or is terminated, the landlord must comply with the provisions of the law in setting the new rent, and in some cases, this may result in a rent reduction.

6. This law sounds complicated. Where can a person go for additional information?

Copies of the ordinance are available at Borough Hall. In addition, the law establishes a five - member Rent Leveling Board to hear and resolve disputes, and generally, to enforce the provisions of the law.

You may also call Borough Hall if you have any questions about how the law applies to your situation. A member of the Borough's professional staff soon will be available to provide further information and advice on how the law works.

A Look at America

I happen to be one of those," he says, "who think there isn't too much wrong with this country. There's been too much beefing, too much knocking. The economy is a problem. But Watergate, in my opinion, has been going on in politics for years. I think we should settle down, solve the economy and our overseas trade — and get the other stuff off the front page."

"Nothing. Too many people are finding fault with America," commented Lambertville electrician Harry Bailey, working on the University campus. "More people are trying to break it down than anything else. Try a few other countries and see what happens."

Mr. Bailey, however, included one qualification in his defense. "If there is anything wrong, it's just that a lot of people are getting lazy. They want something for nothing."

In a Word . . . That bugaboo of parents — permissiveness — was mentioned by two as being a national affliction.

"Permissiveness. Just one word. You don't have to make it complicated because it is that simple," observed George Turkel of Route 1, a clerk at Bill's Men's Shop. "Nobody paying the piper. Doing what they want without any thought of paying the consequences."

Contractor Leo Kessler of West Orange stated: "It's very permissive. Its moral integrity is very poor . . . it's just falling apart in my opinion.

To correct everything the only solution as I see it — and I'm very fearful of it — is to have a complete collapse again. Turn the economy back to where it should be — where everyone has to work for a living."

Inflation? The eye-opening effect of the ending of Phase 3 was probably sensed ahead of time by Michael Ferrara, a Trenton electrician. "What's wrong with this country? The main thing is inflation. They should try to stop it but there is no way they can," was his gloomy prediction.

"It's like temporary taxes: wages will never be lowered. All you can do is carry your money in a basket. It'll soon be like Germany after the war: you'll need a room full of money to buy a loaf of bread.

Edith Stevenson, a member of the Firestone Library staff rebuked "The people. They have an attitude a mile long. People in general hate each other. We are constantly downgrading each other on all levels. If we would examine ourselves and do what the Good Book says . . . 'Do unto others . . .'"

WHAT'S WRONG WITH AMERICA? Nixon, corruption in high places and the failure to legalize marijuanna, offers Chas Fremuth, a Princeton University student majoring in creative writing. His wife, Lynn, after charging the government with spending the people's tax money in areas the people don't want to see it spent, adds: "People seem to be lulled into thinking that America is the best place when it could be better."

The utilitarian blight of "too many cars, too much traffic," was cited by Denise Phelps, legal secretary for a Princeton attorney. "I can't stand it any more," she added.

A Lack of Ideals. Hopewell teacher Tom Pears was more philosophical. "People don't have strong ideals. They lack integrity, they're unwilling to take positive action to follow up their beliefs. They'd much rather sit back and let things go by.

Not only don't they have strong ideals," he continued, "but the ideals they do have are terrible ones. I'm obviously referring to Watergate."

A glimpse of 1984 was contained in the response by Joan Seibert, a financial secretary for A.R. Braveman & Co., when she said, "Too much big government. It's getting so they're controlling everything.

"According to an article I read in the Wall Street Journal, the government is considering fining big eaters on the grounds by eating too much you become overweight. When you're overweight you're unhealthy. And if you're unhealthy, it's not good for the government. They're controlling everything. Get out of my life!"

Retrogression. For Nancy Lutz, Kingston housewife, the country was living closer to the 19th century. Said she: "I think the laws should be changed. I don't think we should be living back in the 1850s. The schools, government . . . what everybody has to do . . . are way back. I don't see any progress toward more individual freedom. I don't think everyone should have to live under one man's rule and that's what's happened in this country."

Mr. Dean, a Princeton University graduate student from Tennessee who declined to give his first name, charged America with "misdirected priorities." After giving examples of the war, the space program, the emphasis now on international as opposed to domestic politics, he added, "I think we should be spending more time trying to solve the problems in this country."

Thomas Griggs, campus policeman and Larry McHugh, manager of the Princeton Clothing Company, both mentioned the lack of communication between government and the people. "The result," said Mr. Griggs, "is chaos. I think this is true all up and down the line: there is a lack of communication between the university and the town, between the white and black community, between Princeton and Trenton . . . and certainly you could say between Mitchell and Nixon."

A Lack of Awarreness. "There is a tremendous lack of continuity between government and the people," echoed Mr. McHugh. There is no line drawn between the two. People just aren't aware of what's going on."

Then he asked, "If you went out in the street and asked about Watergate, how many do you think would be able to give you an intelligent answer? Not many. People are not well informed. When we have to cover up things like Watergate and the Ellsberg case, I feel as a citizen I should have the right to know what's going on."

Finally, Laura Pears, an administrative assistant for the N.J. Hospital Association, who had observed "when you think of America today, you think of it mainly in terms of government," posed what she felt was the problem and offered a solution.

"I feel the problem is that as a country we haven't learned to cope with its size. We're still using the techniques of democracy that worked best in a town meeting, and somehow we have to learn to adopt the media to bring this "feeling" of town meeting back again. That's why we're apathetic, why we're not involved.

"The Senate hearings on Watergate seem to me to be a start," she continued. "I think a television channel should be subsidized that would broadcast all Congressional activities without discrimination or editing. In this way, I think personalities of the people who represent us would come out; there would be more of an interest in dealing with them as people and not just as names on a ballot. For example, Senator Baker of Tennessee in the Watergate hearings. I never knew anything about him. Now I have a good opinion of him after watching him on TV. We've got the media, why not use it?

In the end, perhaps it is the range of these opinions, their diversity and the freedom to express them that will continue to make America great, and will see it through the signs of moral unraveling.

Interest Hike on Savings Virtually Dries up Mortgage Money Here

A combination of economic factors, including a national policy to fight inflation and a recent change in allowable New Jersey savings and mortgage interest rates have conspired to make increasingly difficult the task of securing a mortgage in Mercer County.

For the first time in many years, both Princeton Savings and Loan and Nassau Savings and Loan associations have stopped even accepting applications for mortgages. The commercial banks have tightened their out flow of mortgage money also.

"There's no making someone fill out an application if we have no money to lend," said a spokesman at Nassau Savings.

Compounding the confusion and in some banker's eyes, worsening the mortgage situation—was an offering of eight percent savings certificates made by Princeton Bank and Trust Company. The offer was advertised for only six business days.

Before it was withdrawn last week, more than $2.5 million in the four year, $5,000 minimum, $25,000 maximum certificates were sold as much as $2 million worth bought with funds transferred out of the two savings and loans institutions.

William R. Cosby

Raiding Deposits. The PB & T offer, made under a new state regulation passed July 5 and then modified last week to limit the total amount of such sales, left competitive bankers confused, or bitter, or both.

By early this week Princeton bankers were saying things about other Princeton bank ers that one would not expect to hear from bankers. All off the record, of course.

"What it effectively amounts to is a raid on our resources," said an official of one of the Princeton savings associations. "Princeton Bank and Trust has successfully bought up all the available mortgage money in town."

A spokesman for the other savings and loan asked, "Will any of this money go back into the community? Not much will. They will have to put it into something that makes more than eight percent. That won't be mortgages."

Defensive Moves. After Princeton Bank and Trust announced its eight percent offering, First National Bank did likewise. The latter did not advertise its offer, but simply posted notices in its lobbies in an effort to head off depositers coming in to transfer to Princeton Bank.

"It was strictly a defensive move," said First National President John Hoff. "We weren't convinced that we could employ eight percent funds profitably, but there were other factors. We had to stem the outflow of funds."

At the end of last week, after the regulation change forced the premature withdrawal of the Princeton Bank offering, which had been scheduled to run through Tuesday of this week, First National withdrew its eight percent savings certificate also.

The changes in interest rates, the maneuvering among banks for despositers' assets, and the tight mortgage money all are related to a variety of fluctuating influences in the national and state economy, inflation being the principal one among them.

Lucky So Far. Area real estate agents, as well as prospective home owners, are likely to feel the money crunch soon. Persons contacted this week said they had been fortunate but so far in completing deals where people either had their own money, or were able to secure mortgages from savings and loans before the current squeeze, or were able to make arrangements on generally more stringent terms with commercial banks.

"We haven't been hit head on yet. But we probably will," said one agent.

Unlike some other tight money situations in recent years, Princeton's case is not an exception. Home buyers going to Trenton or elsewhere in Mercer County are not likely to have any better luck than they do here.

Inflation a Cause. The latest money bind began July 5, when the Federal Reserve Board, with orders to control inflation by encouraging savings, enacted new rate ceilings for savings accounts in commercial banks.

The regulators of savings and loans did the same. The result was an increase of one half percent on most savings accounts at either type of bank.

But, for commercial banks, an unlimited rate was allowed on accounts of over $1,000 kept in the bank for at least four years. On that basis Princeton Bank and Trust made its $5,000 minimum offer.

The high interest offerings made by commercial banks drew fire from savings and loans, which argued for and won an amendment to the regulation which limited such sales to five percent of a bank's total savings deposits.

Over the Limit. Princeton Bank and Trust, with savings accounts of about $50 million, already had sold more than $2.5 million of eight percent notes and consequently ended its offer.

First National followed suit the next day and with that ended the depletion of the savings and loans by those savers eager to put their funds into accounts with the highest possible interest rates.

But other pressures were bearing on the savings and loans institutions and the general availability of mortgage funds.

William Cosby, president of Princeton Bank, said that institutional investors had been making as many as 50 percent of the mortgage loans in New Jersey, but they were now taking their money elsewhere for higher interest rates.

Requests Doubled. "The difference in rates between New Jersey and some other states has had a big effect," Mr Cosby said New Jersey's maximum mortgage interest rate is eight percent, compared to some other states, notably California with rates as high as 10 percent.

"We've had just about twice as many requests for mortgages as we did," said Mr Cosby, who defended his bank's eight percent offering. "All of us have been tight as a drum. Those savings and loans were practically out of mortgage money before we made our offer."

Mr Cosby said that, in his opinion, the only way more mortgage money would come

"Diamonds Are Forever —"

But Are They Digestible?

Diamonds are made of carbon, not protein, but that didn't stop John F. Miller, 19, 7 Lytle Street, from swallowing a man's .80 carat diamond ring Thursday at LaVake Jewelers, 54 Nassau Street.

Retrieving the ring is, of course, a purely personal matter, and police and insurance authorities — neither of whom feel it is their job — we're leaving it up to Miller to retrieve the ring if he wants to avoid being charged with possession of stolen property.

Miller was x-rayed most recently, on Monday and the ring was still not all the way down his intestinal tract. He is being held in Mercer County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail charged with larceny, possession of stolen property and attempted escape. The latter stemmed from his trying to jump out a second floor window while he was in custody of Pfc. Peter Hanley of the Borough police and two men from the Mercer County Sheriff's Office, awaiting a preliminary hearing in the Mercer County Court House.

Miller's most recent escapade with the police started Thursday afternoon. He has just been released from Borough police headquarters, after being charged with possession of a stolen 10-speed bicycle. "He went from here straight to LaVake's, said Lt. Theodore Lewis.

At LaVake's, Miller asked to see a tray of diamonds. When manager Philip Porado showed him the $920 ring, Miller grabbed it, popped it in his mouth and swallowed. He was still in the store when police answered the alarm sounded by LaVake's.

But there was no evidence. Police, after some legal confusion, obtained a search warrant and took Miller to the Princeton Medical Center where an X-ray pin-pointed the ring in his intestines.

Mr. Porado has already filed a claim with the store's insurance company, Walter B. Howe, Inc. "It's in their hands," he said.

The insurance people think its in the hands of Mercer County Prosecutor's office which, in turn says it can make a case against Miller without the ring.

LaVake's, which advertises "there is never a doubt about a LaVake diamond," may be forced to make an exception.

Legion to Honor Police Who Saved Boy from Drowning in Pool

Four Borough policemen, two of them on the force less than a year, will be honored at the meeting of Council Tuesday night for their role last week in the dramatic rescue of a 14-year-old boy trapped underwater in his family's swimming pool.

The American Legion Medal of Valor will be presented to Ptl. Victor Fasanella, Ptl. Peter Hanley, Ptl. William Hunter and Ptl. William Fitch. The public is invited to attend the presentation of the awards and citations which will also recognize the contributions of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad members to the rescue.

The youth, Christopher Russo, 58 Cleveland Lane, who was trapped under water from five to 10 minutes when his arm became lodged in a drain pipe he was trying to clean, is apparently out of danger. His father, Sabatino Russo Jr. is reported as saying that neurologists have found no signs of nerve or brain damage. Barring any complications, "Chris should have a complete recovery," he said.

Christopher's condition had been listed as critical by the Princeton Medical Center ever since his admittance last Tuesday afternoon. Monday his condition was described as "fair and improving."

A Happy Ending. Chris's rescue from the very brink of death has been one of the good things that has happened in Princeton. "We want to thank everybody, the police, the rescue squad, the people at the hospital and all those who prayed for him," said his grateful father.

"You have to take some guff on the job but this is what makes it all worth while," said Ptl. Fasanella. "To be able to help someone like this . . . it makes you feel great to know that you've been able to do something good."

Ptl. Hanley, who had just graduated from the police academy at Sea Girt June 15, agreed that it was easily his most dramatic moment on the force.

"Without a doubt," he said, adding: "And I'd be just as happy if nothing else like it ever happened again." Like Ptl. Fasanella, he mentioned the good feeling that came with being able to save a life. "It makes you feel like a million dollars."

The Only Thing That Matters, Ptl. Hunter, characteristically gruff at the mention of medals, said: "I don't care about that. Just as long as the boy's all right. That's the only thing that matters."

Ptl. Fitch, who with Ptl. Hanley is one of the newest members of the force, had finished his 7 to 3 shift when the frantic call came in at 3:35. He heard the call for the rescue truck. "Pick me up at the corner of Witherspoon and Wiggins," he shouted over the mike and joined in the rescue efforts when the first aid truck arrived a few minutes later.

Lt. Theodore Lewis summed it up when he said, "He is some lucky boy."

The dramatic sequence of events began when Chris, a sophomore at Princeton Day School, dove to the bottom of 30-by 60-foot pool to remove paint chips frm a drain vent located on the bottom ten feet below. He uncapped the cover with a screwdriver, reached into the 3-inch recirculation pipe — and his arm became wedged in a bend in the pipe.

His 12-year-old brother, Nicky, seeing his frantic gestures for help rushed into the house and alarmed his father. Mr. Russo raced out of his land development office, U.S. Properties Corp., which he maintains in his home with his secretary, Mrs. Carolyn Gutermuth.

Mr. Russo dove into the pool and twice tried to free his son's arm. He was unsuccessful. Meantime, two visitors, Leslie Kraus, 15, and her 13-year-old sister, Jessie, called police.

Ptl. Hanley and Ptl. Fasanella responded in one car; Ptl. Hunter in another. Det. Timothy Hunzing in an unmarked car also raced to the scene. Hanley and Fasanella shed their gun belts and shoes as they ran to the pool's edge. Down below, Chris had lost consciousness and was turning blue.

Hanley, first by three or four seconds, dove in and tried to free the youth. He was unable to. Then Fasanella tried and he, too, could not free the arm from its vise-like grip. Then the two officers tried together. "The second time I stood on the bottom and was able to get better leverage," said Ptl. Hanley. Lack of any leverage had frustrated all previous efforts, he said. Together the two officers pulled the youth up.

Didn't Waste Time. "We didn't waste any time checking him," said Ptl. Hanley. He and Fasanella alternated giving mouth to mouth resuscitation, while the others administered chest massage. "It seemed like quite a while but I imagine it was only three or four minutes."

Even in those first moments, Ptl. Hanley recalled that he could feel the wind being pushed out of the victim's lungs. "It was very faint but you could hear it.

As soon as the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Truck arrived, the squad attached a resuscitation machine to the victime and rushed him to the hospital. "They didn't give him much chance when he was admitted," Mr. Russo said.

Ptl. Fasanella and Ptl. Hanley visited Chris twice, most recently on Sunday. He wasn't able to talk because he still had a tube in his throat but he shook hands with us, Ptl. Fasanella said.

Mr. Russo and his wife, Barbara, a Princeton photographer, have four other children. It will be a few days, he said before Chris can see visitors. He reported doctors told him that they had never seen anything like his son's recovery before.

available would be by increasing the yield. "But that takes legislation to do anything differently.," he said.

Legislation on July 19 raised the mortgage rate from seven and one-half percent to eight percent. That increase, however, was partially negated for the savings and loans by the increase in savings interests.

Hard Looks. Before the July 5 revisions the ceiling on S&L savings accounts was six percent. After that, it rose to seven percent. The amount it could charge on mortgages rose only one-half percent.

The commercial banks, while not ceasing to consider applications for mortgages, are looking at them much more selectively.

Four weeks ago First National Bank of Princeton set a limit of $65,000 on mortgages. It also raised the down-payment it required from one-fifth to one-third of the home's market value.

Although most bankers agreed that "tight money" would have hit Princeton without Princeton Bank and Trust's eight percent certificates, some wondered why that bank made the offer.

High Price. Based on its June 30 statement, Princeton Bank appeared to be in a relatively liquid state, with a low ratio of loans to savings. Eight percent seemed a high price to pay to add to those savings.

The theory offered by one source was that, even though Princeton Bank had a comfortable amount of savings, the holding corporation of which it is a member may not have. Again, tight money problems elsewhere came to rest in Princeton as well.

Said Mr. Cosby: "A lot of banks out there have had give aways to get new depositors. We figured we would have a giveaway that people could really use — a higher interest rate."

He added: "We did, and it was damn successful."

GROTTO RE-OPENED

After Third Inspection. The Grotto resumed business last Friday, 10 days after it was closed by the Department of Health for violations of the State Sanitary Code.

The restaurant at 18 Witherspoon Street was closed July 16, when a spot inspection uncovered an infestation of cockroaches in its kitchen and several other health violations. It was reinspected July 20, and more roaches were flushed out by the state inspector.

Last Thursday, after Borough Health Officer David T. Blake and Sanitary Inspector Andrew R. O'Hara Jr. supervised a thorough fumigation of the Grotto premises, the restaurant received a satisfactory rating and was allowed to reopen.

"We worked hard and spent a lot of hours cleaning up," said Mike Palenza, the Grotto owner. "We're located in an old building and wherever you have old buildings, you're likely to have these kinds of problems."

Mr. Blake said that the speed with which the Grotto erased the presence of roaches "astounded" the state inspector. "They rarely go directly from an unsatisfactory rating to a satisfactory. Usually they give only a conditional satisfactory and then check back again."

Who's Next? Mr. Blake was asked what restaurant might be next in line for a spot check under the stringent new regulations enacted last December.

"There's no telling," he replied.

"But I hope this incident will awaken other food establishments, and that they will give themselves a self inspection," the health officer said.

Copies of Chapter 12 of the State Sanitary Code were sent to all restaurants and food establishments when the law was enacted. "Anyone closed down has only himself to blame," said Mr. Blake.

GENERAL ALARM SOUNDS For Basement Fire. A general alarm was sounded at 6:24 p.m. Thursday for a fire in the basement at 29 Alexander Street.

Police report that 20-year old Glen West, son of Professor Charles C. West of Princeton Theological Seminary, who lives at the address, was working on a motorcycle in the basement. When the hot water heater came on, police said, it apparently ignited some gasoline on the floor. The fire was confined to the gasoline, and Mr. West was not injured, police said.

All fire companies responded to the alarm.

AMERICAN EXPRESS HIT By Rock-Throwing Vandals. A large plate glass window in the front of the American Express office, 10 Nassau Street, was broken twice last week in two days.

Police report that a rock was hurled through the window between 9 p.m. and 10:35 Sunday morning. It was repaired. Then Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt and Ptl. Ronald Holiday reported that the same window was broken again by rocks hurled between 5 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

3 HOMES RANSACKED In Daylight Friday. Three Township homes were entered and ransacked during daylight hours Friday. The modus operandi was the same in each: sliding glass doors forced to gain entry, the house then extensively ransacked and jewelry and silver articles stolen.

The home of Elwood W. Phares, 72 Arreton Road, was entered between 9 a.m. and 3:15 p.m. Police said every room in the house was ransacked.

Included in the loot was a 12-piece Tiffany silver service taken from a dining room buffet and women's dresses from the master bedroom. Ptl. Howard Sweeney investigated.

Rear sliding glass doors were pried to enter the home of Raymond A. Bowers, 88 Russell Road, between 11 and 1:50 p.m.

Mrs. Bowers told police that when she entered her house she noticed some of her silver lying on the floor. Several small silver pieces including little cups, trays and napkin rings were taken from a den. A top of a desk in the room had been ripped off.

The dining room yielded a 13-place setting of silver, 91 pieces in all; a master bedroom, jewelry and money. Also ransacked were the living room, pantry and "Florida" room. Sgt. David Potts investigated.

Police listed the time of entry of the Edler G. Hawkins home, 226 Ross Stevenson Circle (off Mt. Lucas) as between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The entry was reported at 5 by a housesitter, who told police that she saw items strewn all over the floor when she entered. A large prying tool had forced open a rear sliding glass door, police said.

Ptl. Olindo Carnevle, who investigated, said it was unknown what was taken, pending the return of the owners. The entire first floor was ransacked.

Fourth Home Entered. Earlier in the week, a fourth Township home at 360 Riverside Drive was entered and ransacked. Again the theft took place during the day — between 9:45 a.m. and 5:10 p.m. The owners are Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Rock Jr.

Taken was an assortment of jewelry and watches, including four rings, the most expensive of which was valued at $600; three women's wrist watches and two men's watches. Entry was gained by removing a screen from a front window.

Mrs. Rock told police that she discovered the master bedroom upstairs had been ransacked when she returned home around 5. She then noticed, upon investigating, a dining room window open and the screen lying in the shrubbery. A portable typewriter taken from a study had been placed near the open window.

Police report that all the rooms were "selectively scanned." Ptl. John Hammond investigated.

In the wake of the thefts, Det. Samuel Bianco urged neighbors not to hesitiate to call the police if they notice anything suspicious.

PLANT THIEF RETURNS

Two More Taken. Princeton's plant thief has struck again.

Mrs. Robert B. Cook, 2 Hamilton Avenue, reported the theft last week of a finger leaf philodendron in a redwood pot on wheels from her front porch. Shortly thereafter, Carol Illava, 160 N. Harrison Street, reported the theft of an 18-inch geranium plant with three flowers from her front porch. No value was given in either theft, police said.

Susan R. Pritchard of Hamilton Square reported the theft of a rear speaker from her car last week while it was parked in the Franklin Avenue lot of the Princeton Medical Center. Police said entry was gained through the car's trunk.

Two dollars in nickels and a fifth of rum were stolen last week from a second floor room at the Ivy Club on Prospect Avenue. Entry was by way of a window. Police identified the owner as Zachory Simpson.

Harold Knox, a delivery driver for Nassau Liquors, 94 Nassau Street, told police that someone stole two half-gallons of Scotch and a half-gallon of Seagram's whiskey from his unlocked truck last week while he was making a delivery at 214 Witherspoon Street. He reported the theft took place between 7:20 and 7:25 p.m.

More fortunate was John Wanrzonkiewicz of Middletown.

He told police that his green vinyl suitcase containing service tools, parts for Dictaphone equipment nd a meter with a combined value of $800 had been taken from his unlocked car while it was parked in front of Forer's Pharmacy on Witherspoon Street.

Less than two hours later, the bag with all its contents intact was found outside 266 Witherspoon. The incident touk place Friday.

Costly Swim. A gold Omega wristwatch valued at $450 was stolen between 7 and 7:30 Saturday evening while its owner was swimming in the Community Park pool.

Leigh Overton, 57 Laurel Road, told police that she had left her watch in a bag sitting on the ground. Police said the name "Leigh" is engraved on the back. The watch's serial number is BB751005.

How quickly a theft can take place is illustrated by the report of Paula Cullen, 3 Turner Court.

Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Cullen parked in the driveway at 171 Broadmead to visit a rummage sale at the old Princeton Day School building. She left her purse under her car's front seat.

When she returned five minutes later, she discovered that her purse had been pulled out from under the seat, loose change scattered over the floor and her black leather wallet containing $80 missing. Police said the car had been left unlocked.

Robert J. Johnson of Room 132, Princeton Inn Dorm lost $150 Sunday.

Police report that someone forced the door of his room between 9:30 a.m. and 10:30 in the evening and took $150 which was in an envelope in a desk. Ptl. William Potts investigated the theft, reported by the Princeton University Security Office.

RESIDENTS PETITION

Against Harry's Brook Plan. More opposition, in the form of a petition, surfaced this week against Sandean Construction, the developers of Queenston Common condominiums on North Harrison Street, for their alleged encroachment into the Harry's Brook flood plain.

Ten families, living downstream from the condominium site, have sent a petition to the Department of Environmental Protection's Division of Water Resources asking that the developer be required to remove all fill from the encroachment strip as called for by the State in March.

Further the residents have asked that the State disapprove any plans for enclosing the bronk in a culvert or for building retaining walls between the brook and the edge of the encroachment strip.

They also ask that the building permit for the new building "S" on the western section of the Brook near Harrison Street be invalidated, because the stream encroachment permit necessary for a building permit becomes void when a violation occurs.

The residents contend that the effect of either would be to block dispersal of flood waters within a natural flood plain and channel their flow, thereby raising potential for erosion deposits of rock, gravel and sand shoals downstream. "There is ample evidence that this has already occurred as a result of the culvert constructed by the Queenston Common for the purpose of building Gordon Way," the petition states.

The builders allegedly violated a stream encroachment permit issued by the water policy and supply council, which permitted them to put a culvert at Gordon Way. Fill has been placed beyond the encroachment line, according to the residents.

Sandean Defends Actions. In a statement released Tuesday, defending its actions, Sandean Construction said it had stuck to the requirements of water policy officials. It also suggested that the Water Council should check properties downstream to correct violations within the encroachment zone.

"Our plans for the treatment of Harry's Brook is and always has been to follow the requirements of the New Jersey Water Policy officials.

"The location of all buildings and roads in Queenston was originally determined by LOVELORN LADY: Restoration comedy will be presented at Summer Intime, as the company produces "The Beaux' Stratagem," with the help of Michele McDonough's costume designing. Michele here wears the hat of a lovelorn Restoration lady. The production runs August 2-5, and 9-12 at Murray Theatre.

News Of The THEATRES

'STRATAGEM' FOR MIRTH

At Summer Intime, "The Beaux Stratagem," Summer Intime's third production of the current season, opens at the Murray Theatre Thursday night at 8:30.

George Farquhar's comedy of the late Restoration, which he wrote in 1707 tells the story of Archer and Aimwell, "two gentlemen of broken fortunes," who depart from London for the English countryside. They alternate in the roles of master and servant to disguise their embarrassing financial conditions, and set out in search of love and fortune.

"Bo Strat," as the company calls the play, is a fast paced combination of energetic farce and insightful wit. Archer and Aimwell encounter an innkeeper highwayman, a ruffian country squire, a disaffected spouse, an affected French officer, and an unaffected country maid, to name a few.

Peter Breger, the company's artistic director, also directed the season's first production, "The Philanthropist."

"'Beau' is a real treat for us," Mr Breger said. "It's big, broad, bawdy, and the costumes are a real treat. It's something we've all wanted to do for a long time, since it's so rarely produced."

The costumes that Mr. Breger is talking about were put together by Michele McDonough, McCarter Theatre's wardrobe mistress for the past year. Coincidentally, Ms. McDonough's final design project for her degree in theatre arts from Webster College was a design of Beaux' Stratagem.

The play runs August 2, 3, 4, and August 9, 10, 11 at 8:30 p.m., with performances at 7:30 p.m. on August 5 and 12.

Box office hours for tickets and phone reservations are 10 to 8, Monday through Saturday, and from 1 to 8 on Sunday. For reservations, recall 452-8181.

BLITHE SPIRIT NEXT

For Princeton Theatre Co.

Supernatural antics run rampant in Blithe Spirit, Noel Coward's longest running hit show, which will be the Princeton Theatre Company's third major production of the season, opening this Thursday.

The show ran almost five years after it opened in London and except for a brief Broadway revival in the late 1960's Blithe Spirit hasn't been seen in this area since the 1940's.

The play is being directed by Sallie Brophy, who has directed many hit shows for Summer Intime and the Princeton Community Players. Most recently she directed Theatre Intime's successful production of Coward's Hay Fever.

Noel Coward is no stranger to Miss Brophy, who began her career as an actress with the part of Sibyl in the national tour of Private Lives, starring Tallulah Bankhead.

This Coward play is full of supernatural happenings. When Madame Arcati goes into one of her professional trances, she unexpectedly materializes the hero's deceased wife — much to the Madame's delight, the husband's amazement, and his second wife's dismay.

Leila Cannon, who portrays the humbling Madame Arcati, is a native of Wales and attended the Central School of Speech and Drama in London. She was very active in repertory companies in England, Wales, and the Bahamas, and was a member of the McCarter Theatre company for three years, where her roles included Mrs. Higgins in Pygmalion and Lady Bracknell in The Importance Of Being Earnest.

She was most recently seen in this area as Meg in the Theatre Intime production of Brendan Behan's The Hostage in 1972.

Mark Capri appears as Charles Condomine, the instigator of the troublesome seance. A former member of Princeton's Summer Intime (where he played the title role in Playboy Of The Western World, among others), Mark is a graduate of Stanford and will be attending the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art in the fall.

Elvira, the dead wife who returns to delightfully torment Charles, will be portrayed by Marcia Ellian. Miss Ellian, who plays Olivia in the PTC production of Twelfth Night, will be remembered by area audiences for her perormances in Happy Birthday Wanda June (directed by Sallie Brophy), and A Flea In Her Ear at Summer Intime last year.

Ruth Condomine, Charles's present wife, is played by Alice White. A familiar face to area theatregoers, Miss White was a member of the 1969-1970 McCarter Company, and both the 1979 and 1972 Summer Intime companies.

Walton Jones will be seen as Dr. Bradman, a friend of the Condomines who has been invited to the "innocent" seance. Mr. Jones is a writer and producer of numerous children's shows and musicals, and is currently working on his M.F.A. in directing from the Yale School of Drama. He was the musical director for PTC's A Thurber Carnival and appeared as Sebastian in PTC's Twelfth Night.

Mrs. Bradman will be portrayed by Ann Judson, a newcomer to the area stage. She has performed in summer stock in Indiana, and most recently has participated in the Princeton Community Players acting workshops.

Anne Louise Hoffmann completes the cast as the Condomines scatter-brained maid Edith. Miss Hoffmann has appeared with Bucks County, McCarter, Theatre Intime and Summer Intime, and played the lead role of Viola in PTC's production of Twelfth Night.

Performances of Blithe Spirit will continue Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings, and again Thursday through Sunday next weekend at the air-conditioned Fine Arts Theatre of Rider College, 2083 Lawrenceville Rnad.

1,500 Tickets Stolen from Princeton Theatre Co.

Theatre tickets exceeding $5,000 in re-sale value have been stolen from the Princeton Theatre Company, based at the Fine Arts Theatre of Rider College, Lawrenceville. The theft was discovered early Thursday evening by Robert J. Wascura, PTC's business manager.

"When I got to the box office I started to sort tickets for the show that night, and also for the remaining performances of Twelfth Night. It was then I noticed that tickets for Friday, Saturday, and Sunday were gone, as well as blocks of tickets from the remaining three shows of the season," stated Mr. Wascura.

Tickets are missing from Blithe Spirit, The Alchemist, Under Milkwood and the current PTC show, Twelfth Night.

The total number of tickets missing is 1,583 and the amount is $5,517 if sold at box office prices. Daniel Berkowitz, co-manager of PTC, said that none of the missing tickets will be honored at the door.

"All tickets for the shows are sold only at the box office. Anyone who purchases tickets for PTC shows anywhere else should be aware that they are buying stolen tickets, and they will be void for the performances."

Lawrence Township police are investigating the theft. Anyone who sees or hears of anyone selling PTC tickets should notify the Lawrence police.

COMEDY OPENS RUN

At Bucks County Playhouse, "Mary, Mary", a comedy by Jean Kerr, is being presented at the Bucks County Playhouse through August 12. The long-running Broadway hit, which played for 45 months and over 1,500 performances, concerns a contemporary couple standing on the brink of divorce because of the wife's tongue, a lethal weapon which is continually raining down a barrage of japes, jibes and jokes upon her husband.

Gloria Willis has the title role of Mary, and Richard Mathews is Bob, her beleaguered husband. Others in the cast are Carole Mallory as the sleek and humorless heiress Bob almost marries, Jay Devlin as the sarodnic movie star sympathetic to Mary, and William Parent as the calculating lawyer in the middle.

Mrs. Kerr, wife of N.Y. Times Sunday drama critic Walter Kerr, has written several comedies for the stage as well as the best seller, "Please Don't Eat The Daisies", "The Snake Has All The Lines" and "Penny Candy". However, her undisputed masterpiece is "Mary, Mary", a work which was acclaimed as wise and witty by nearly all the critics.

Performances of "Mary, Mary," directed by Burt Katz are scheduled for Tuesday through Saturday at 8:30, Sunday at 6, and Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2.

This Thursday, The Fantare Theatre Ensemble of New York will present "Puss 'n Boots", an original musical for children tracing the magical adventures of the famous fairy tale character. Shows start at 11:30 and 2.

MACBETH ON STAGE

At Open Air Theatre. The verbal magic of Shakespeare's thriller "Macbeth" will be brought to the stage of The Open Air Theatre at Washington Crossing State Park, Route 29 north of Trenton, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30.

"Macbeth" will be presented by Shakespeare '70, the Trenton based company which in past seasons presented "Hamlet," "Twelfth Night" and "A Midsummer Nights Dream".

The play is being produced and directed by Dr. John F. Erath and Gerald E. Guarnieri. Dr. Erath teaches Shakespeare and Renaissance and Restoration Drama at Trenton State College.

Mr. Guarnieri, founder of Shakespeare '70, also is president of the Pennington Players, designer for Trenton State College's Opera Workshop and chief designer for Artists Showcase Theatre.

The production stars Marvin W. Stafford of Fairless Hills, Pa., as Macbeth. Mr. Stafford, a former nightclub comedian, appeared recently in Paramount Pictures' "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," and this fall will appear as Henry II in "The Lion in Winter" at Artists Showcase Theatre in Trenton.

IN LEADING ROLES: Susan-Jane Finkel will star as Lady Macbeth and Marvin W. Stafford will play Macbeth in the Shakespeare '70 production opening Thursday night at Washington Crossing Park.

The Cast. Susan Jane Finkel plays Lady Macbeth. A doctoral candidate at Princeton University, she appeared last season as Helena in "A Midsummer Nights Dream" and in "She Stoops to Conquer" at Artists Showcase.

Charles Brown of Levittown portrays Banquo. Familiar to audiences as a newscaster on Channel 52, Mr. Brown recently appeared in "Jacque Brel" at McCarter Theatre.

IT'S NEW IN KINGSTON

A Yarn Shop. For over a year, Betty James had been planning to open a shop catering to one of her great loves—needlework; and last week with the shelves fully stocked and the walls freshly painted, the Kingston Yarn Shop at 48 Main Street, Kingston was ready.

Trained as a Registered Nurse and having worked at both Princeton Hospital and N.J.N.P.I., Mrs. James believes in friendliness and service. She is proficient at knitting, crocheting, crewel and needlepoint, and plans to give individual instruction to anyone who needs help. The day we visited a teenager was learning to knit some slippers and another customer was practicing beginning crewel stitches.

Mrs. James believes that people derive a sense of pride from handicrafts. There is the satisfaction of making a project yourself, and then later the enjoyment of having a useful or decorative item. In August she plans to begin a knitting and crocheting class for teenagers and so introduce them to these old and enjoyable crafts.

One wall of the store is filled with 14 different weights and textures of knitting and crocheting yarns. With the exception of some French Angora, they are from the Plymouth Yarn Co., which Mrs. James feels makes a nice medium priced yarn. They are all machine washable and usually require a minimum of blocking.

Wide Color Selection. The selection includes baby, bulky, and knubbly dress yarns; and we saw every color imaginable from soft heathers to bright reds, even some multi-colored skeins. The store has lots of pattern books from which you can select a sweater, skirt, coat, afgan or tennis dress to make with one of these many yarns.

Around the store are various vests and sweaters that Mrs. James has made and she has copied the patterns for anyone who would like to try them. We especially admired a child's cable raglan-sleeve sweater and a long sleeveless vest made in a large open crochet stitch.

Yarn is currently in limited supply because much of the basic fiber is being exported. As a result of this, Mrs. James has been unable to buy a full line of needlepoint yarns, but she has many kits by Bucilla which she feels supplies a nice varied selection.

Among the crewel kits, we admired a pillow called Field Daisies in tones of gold and yellow on natural linen $6.50; and a wall panel 21 by 27 inches called Jungle Harmony, $6.

Needlepoint Belts. Bucilla also has several kits for needlepoint belts. Each kit includes the belt buckle, wool, canvas and cotton suede for the backing and you can choose a leopard pattern, abstract star flowers or tulips, $5.25. Then we loved a brightly colored patchwork needlepoint pillow which has directions for the many different stitches.

The store carries frames in brown, black and blue that fit most wall panels and forms for the pillows, $2 for both items. Also, Mrs. James will help you block the finished work and sew the pillow together.

The store is open 10 until 6 Monday to Friday, and 9 to 1 on Saturdays during the summer, and there is some coffee and instruction for anyone who needs it.

MAKE IT YOURSELF: In her newly-opened kingston Yarn Shop, Betty Jomes displays one of her somples, o Chonel sweoter crocheted in o striped design. She'll be happy to provide you with the pottern ond free instruction.

IF IT'S A TOY

Zinders Has It. Walking through Zinder's, not a toy crossed our mind that we didn't shortly see on one shelf or another. Whether you want a child's first pull toy or a psychology game dealing with the status of men and women, the chances are excellent that you will find it among Zinder's large stock.

Recently the store has gotten a big shipment of adult crafts. It is possible to make cheese, $6.49, then home-made wine, $9.29, and invite some friends in for a wine and cheese party. However, if you prefer something more lasting, there is a stained glass figure Trophy kit whihc has the materials for a golfer, skier or whatever other sport you wish to honor, $3.

We also saw kits for pottery which include a battery-operated potters wheel, $14.50; liquid plastic for preserving a treasured shell, coin, stamp, etc., $5.49; and decorative soaps in the shapes of turtles or flowers, $5.49.

Mickey Mouse is as popular as ever and there are numerous products featuring him. There are watches with red or blue straps and we noticed that even manager Dave Brewer was sporting one, $9.95. Then there is a Disney tea set that will adequately serve four little friends, $3.99; and a large bounce ball with a Mickey or Donald Duck head as the handle, $12.50.

Cooling It With Houbigant This Summer

Increasing sales is the name of the game in the business world, and one way to do it is to think up new uses for your product.

With this in mind, Houbigant, Inc., makers of Chantilly and Quelques Fleurs Eau de Cologne has come up with several tips on how to keep cool in summer.

Along with such advice as eating less tepid baths, avoiding mental tension and not running to catch buses, Houbigant has these suggestions:

When the palms of your hands become moist from sexing at home, typing in the office playing cards, pat on some dusting powder to give a soothing fresh feel to the skin."

"Keep cologne in your bedroom, too—and on hot nights, when even sheep seem too woolly to count—touch the cologne to your wrists and temples. You'll cool off and drift to dreamland on a sweet scented cloud."

"Sprinkle cologne over ice cubes in a bowl. Saturate a cotton pad with this icy cologne and place it on your forehead. Lie down for fifteen minutes with your eyes closed. You'll feel cooler and completely relaxed."

If you feel this will beat your heat problems, you can purchase the Houbigant Chantilly and Quelques Fleurs at Thorne's, Junction Pharmacy, Marsh's and Forer's.

Welcome Aboard

by CHRIS

Sweden is a country that is a joy to visit. First of all, the country is very clean and very well-kept, and the standard of living seems very high. Then Sweden is known for its many beautiful things. Lamps, for example, are very fine. Linens and bath towels are of first quality. Chinaware, silver, glassware: the country is worth seeing just for the beauty of these. Why not inquire about a trip to Sweden? You'll find it terribly rewarding!

Make any trip more delightful when you make your reservations through WELCOME ABOARD TRAVEL CENTER 29 Witherspoon Street. Scandinavia has a myriad of charms totally unlike those found in other European countries. Make this the year to see for yourself. Call 921-3350. Open daily 9-5:30, Saturday 10-2.

long to the kids, they might enjoy Creative Playthings Up-Swing Climber which when hung from a tree branch provides a round wooden seat for swinging and a climbing rope, $8.50.

One of our favorite items was a medieval castle, $25, with turrets, walkways, and a sliding door. There is also a Fort Larrame and either can be fully staffed by Britain's hand painted unbreakable models of indians, soldiers, animals, trojans or even highlanders in kilts, 39 cents to $2.50 for a large elephant.

For adults there are action games such as Bobby Hull's Hockey, $22.99, or Talking Football which features you as the quarterback with 96 different plays, $13.99. Then among the board games we noticed Thinking Man's Golf which has 18 of the best golf holes in the U.S. with a par 72, $9.95, and the Wine Cellar game which takes you on a wine-tasting tour of the California districts for fun and information, $7.50.

However, if you are a lover of the good old-fashioned toys, Zinder's can help you here too. The store carries authentic handcrafted folk toys made by the Blue Ridge Mountain people. This line includes a rubber band gun, jumping jig, ball tosser and fox and geese game, and they are all only $2.

Located at 102 Nassau Street, Zinder's is open 9 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday.

The Hireling. A well made British view of how class barriers still overcome all, which features fine performances by Sarah Miles and Robert Shaw. This film won the top award at the Cannes Film Festival.

In England, class barriers have always loomed tall, while in the United States, barriers are drawn more along racial lines. Both, however, are manifestations of the same thing, the desire and the need to be not only better than someone else but to have everyone know it. That understanding is at the back of The Hireling.

Sarah Miles is a woebegone English lady just out of a mental hospital. Robert Shaw is a very correct chauffeur for hire just out of Her Majesty's service and starting out in the rental car business. She is making another start at life after her elderly husband's sudden death and her own breakdown. He is hired by chance to drive her home.

Shaw, his life well laid out while Miles is drifting at best, is at first amused. His amusement turns to interest and eventually desire. Things come to a head when a third party intervenes and the ending is drawn pretty much along class lines.

Miss Miles has been talked about lately as a love object after the recent Burt Reynolds episode and this film helps to explain why. She is not particularly beautiful or sexy, but she has a fragility about her that is enticing, a look in her eyes that says, I'm about to crack and oh, please see that I don't!

Shaw is effective at catching the erosion of the chauffeur's hardy, affable nature which reacts to the onslaught of passion by first becoming testy, then scared and finally bitterly cynical. In a moving ending he vents his spleen by battering his car and his livelihood endlessly against the walls of his lower class garage.

PLAYHOUSE

Scarecrow A rambling, mawkish, occasionally poignant story of an ex-convict and ex-seaman on the road from California to Pittsburgh with the dream of opening a carwash. The film is saved by two excellent performances by Gene Hackman and Al Pacino as hoboes drifting through a series of encounters.

The film too often seems as aimless and formless as the two people its talking about. Its slow progression is their slow progression Eastward. They stop to see Hackman's sister, they do some time in prison after a bar room brawl, and eventually they reach Detroit where Pacino gets turned off by his not-quite-wife in a telephone conversation that is one of the film's best-written scenes but by the time it arrives, too much that is deadening has gon on before.

The film's photography makes the hills of California look pollution - free and so gorgeous that one wonders why Hackman or anyone would ever want to leave them to go to Pittsburgh. (R)

MONTGOMERY

The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing. A formula Western in which hapless heroine meets he-man that is peopled with sterentypes and blandly played. Will be remembered more for the explosive publicity involving its stars Burt Reynolds and Sarah Miles during its filming.

Basically, this is a ladies' Western romance where all the men are strong, sinewy and silent and the women are yearning romatic creatures. Miss Miles, out riding her palomino one day while toying with the idea of running away from her refined husband, comes across a train robbery in progress. Before she knows it she is made part of the loot.

The youngest of the train robbers immediately starts rape proceedings, the burliest chuckles ominously and all the leader (Reynolds) does is glower. Naturally she is attracted to him at once and when he smears her face with mud to save her from sunburn, she knows it is a love gesture.

Several murders and tortured conversations later, she melts into his arms, he grabs her and it is love, love, love. It is also a bore, bore, bore. (G)

During World War II organized and coordinated research in prevention of disease yielded many important lifesaving discoveries. New and more effective insecticides were developed as well as more research into the irradicating of such diseases as typhus, plague, trichinosis, and infectious jaundice. Much was also learned about the suitability of fabrics in hot and cold climates and their ability to transfer water and heat. Topics Of The Town the Princeton Borough Planning and Zoning Boards and was the basis of our construction procedure. It includes the relocation of the Brook channel where it crosses Gordon Way and the construction of a culvert at that point.

"When the new culvert was complete it was found that the downstream, northern bank would require special modifications behind Building 'A' to allow adequate terraces.

"A request was made to the Water Policy Council for a site visit to discuss the problem. This was done and in a further attempt to solve this problem we employed the firm of Clarke & Rapuno, landscape architects and planners, and long time consultants to Princeton University.

They made a careful study of conditions in the field and made two specific alternate proposals: (A) Partial Extension of Gordon Way Culvert; and (B) a Wall Along Northern Bank. These proposals were submitted to the Water Resources Division early in June. The Queenston residents were advised and acquainted with these proposals.

"We are now waiting for a decision from the State and will proceed with any recommendation they may make including a recent suggestion to place stone rip rap on the bank if preferred.

"It is our desire and intent to do whatever is necessary to prevent erosion and flooding and we await instructions from the State to start this construction. In regard to treatment of the stream at Building "S", we will comply with the decision of the Stream Encroachment Section.

"Incidentally, the upstream capacity of Harry's Brook, west of Harrison Street, is completely controlled via an underground channel which extends into the center of Princeton and only becomes exposed at Harrison Street on our property.

"It is assumed the State Water Council will, in the interest of improving the stream and the environment, inspect the properties downstream from Queenston to correct structural violations within the 40 foot encroachment zone."

FOUR ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Four Princeton residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough traffic court.

Elliot J. Bollentin, 19, 30 Baker Court, paid two fines: $15 for disregarding a traffic signal and $15 for crossing a double yellow line.

Also paying fines of $15 each were William R. Haldane, 24, 456 Ewing Street, speeding; Joseph P. Prucacemo, 53, Columbus Boy Choir School stop sign; and Joan F. Thompson, 49, 525 Mercer Road, failure to give a proper signal when making a turn.

FOUR CARS COLLIDE

In Chain Reaction Accident. Four cars collided Friday afternoon in a chain reaction accident on Stockton Street near Lovers Lane.

The driver of the lead car, Gail F. Spain, 28, of Somerville was tken to Princeton Medical Center where she was treated for a whiplash injury. The other drivers escaped injury. All of the cars were later driven from the scene by the owners.

Police report that the Spain car stopped when a car in front of it slowed suddenly. It was struck in the rear by a truck operated by Claude Emerson of Trenton. Another truck in line driven by Mark Wondrick, 18, of Trenton and a 1973 sedan driven by Alice R. Davison, 49, 73 Moran Avenue, joined the pileup.

It was raining and the roadway was slippery at the time of the mishap. Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm issued no summonses.

PLANS ARE DISCUSSED

For W. Windsor Township Center. The West Windsor Community Association, at a special closed meeting of the Township Committee on July 25 presented a proposal to make long range plans for a Township Center.

WWCA, a non-partisan civic association with a membership of 300 families, is recognized as the largest organization in West Windsor Township. The presentation was made by Thomas Smith, a member of the Board of Directors of WWCA.

The purpose of a Township Center is to provide a central location for activities of West Windsor. The Center would be a meeting place bringing citizens together and giving identity to a suburban township with homes spread apart over a broad area.

The Township Center should provide all municipal services together-Township Hall, Library, Police Station, Auditorium along with other community buildings, such as a YM YWCA. Not all the municipal buildings would be constructed at one time, but an area should be set aside for future development. Construction should take place only as needed.

Retail Shops, Too. An important part of the Center would be retail shops, adjoining the municipal buildings, with a Plaza in the middle. The Center could also provide town-houses and apartments or offices over the shops, such as in Palmer Square.

Included in the Center would be theatre, restaurant and other leisure time facilities. Parking would be underground. Similar to the municipal buildings, the commercial part of the Center could be developed gradually as West Windsor Township grows.

In order for a Township Center to become a reality, comprehensive planning is necessary. Such planning, naturally, can come only from the Township Planning Board, co-ordinating with the Township Committee, which has the responsibility for providing municipal facilities, the WWCA states.

From a financial standpoint, a Township Center, could, conceivably, help support the cost of the municipal buildings. For example, a Development Authority, either public or private, could be created and given the right to develop and own the commercial and residential section of the Center in exchange for a monetary contribution for the municipal section.

Whether or not West Windsor Township endeavored to receive financial benefits from a Township Center, WWCA believes that the concept remains viable.

An example of long range planning for a Township Center can be observed in East Brunswick. Philosophically, a Township Center would be in line with the views of the Planning Board's Consultant, Charles Agle, the WWCA feels.

In the past, he expounded the concept of Community Centers giving identity and unity to neighborhoods. It seems logical that the concept of Community Centers would apply, also, on a township level.

The West Windsor Community Association has been working on its Township Center project for over a year, and the same presentation was made to the Planning Board by Mr. Smith in March. The Township Committee invited the Association to make another presentation.

The Township Committee commissioned Robert J. Hillier to conduct a study on the need for a new Township Hall and Police Station. Thus, the WWCA believes it is particularly appropriate to consider planning for a Township Center at this time. Accordingly, it requested the Township Committee to initiate action to create a Township Center in long range plans and to incorporate all new municipal buildings in the Center.

To Sumbit Works. Women artists living or working in New Jersey who would like to participate in the Douglass College Library's third annual women artists exhibit in December must submit slides or photographs of their work by September 29. Selections for the exhibit will be made from the works submitted.

Each slide or photo must include the artist's name and address, phone, title or work, media, dimensions, and date of execution. An artist's resume would be appreciated.

The slides will be kept at the library in a permanent collection which buyers, sellers and students of art will be free to use. Slides and resumes should be sent to Lynn Miller, reference librarian, Douglass College Library, New Brunswick, 08903. Phone 201-247-1766, extension 1703.

TEENAGER CHARGED

With Shoplifting. Colleen Flood, 18, of Somerville has been charged with allegedly shoplifting four articles of women's clothing Thursday from Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center. Their combined value was $56.

Signing the complaint summons was Mrs. Constance Ware of the store's security department. The defendant is scheduled to appear in Township court August 29.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. Two 19-year old Trenton youths have been charged by Township police with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

Richard Robbins and Kevin C. Meyer were arrested Thursday on Mercer Road during a routine car check by Ptl. Mario Musso. They were later released in their own recognizance, pending an appearance in court August 29.

Arrested on Route 206. Ronnie Briggs, 23, of New Brunswick, was arrested Sunday afternoon by Ptl. James Vandermark as he was walking along Route 206 near Ewing Street. Police said that he was incoherent and acting strangely.

They charged him with possession of hypodermic needles and syringes and possession of a non-prescriptive drug. Still in Township Jail in lieu of $250 bail, Briggs was scheduled to appear in Township Court this Wednesday.

Letters to TOWN TOPICS' "Mailbox" should be typed, double-spaced, signed and received for publication no later than Monday. No letter will be printed without a valid signature and address. Public Indifference Costly.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

New Jersey's whole tragedy is reflected in the recent casual acknowledgment by a member of the State Prison that he sought the removal of another member out of purely political partisanship. This quite ordinary moral shabbiness becomes a monstrous betrayal of us all where the matter at hand concerns the conduct of our penal system.

This is public business crucial to the survival of a livable world. It is central to crime control and to the character of minority group relationships in our society, two of our most serious continuing problems.

I am not fully familiar with the merits of Archibald S. Alexander's removal from the Board. The one time I observed him in action, I thought he was superb, and there is at least some reason to credit him with preventing an Attica type holocaust at Rahway.

This is not, however, the point at hand. The point is that the public's indifference to quality and tolerance for rottenness in public servants are such that a politician (whose name can be ignored for the purpose of this letter) can say without embarrassment that he can see no reason to retain Mr. Alexander because he contributes to the opposing political party's candidate.

A society that is not determined to rid itself of officials who regard public business in this way deserves the violence, hatreds and general deterioration it gets. Such an utterance should be taken by decent citizens as a signal for an outcry; for joining Common Cause; and for exerting corrective pressure on whichever political party places such people in office.

CHARLES P. DENNISON
11 Haslet Avenue

Brook Encroachment Scored.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter sent to Dirk Hoffman, Bureau of Water Control, Division of Water Resources, State Department of Environmental Protection, plus the Mayor and members of Borough Council.

ELIZABETH L. HUTTER
Secretary
Friends of the Princeton Environment

The Friends of the Princeton Environment have protested for some months the hazards of flooding and erosion to property along Harry's Brook, from Harrison Street down, which have arisen from disregard of a State stream encroachment permit during construction of four buildings along the Brook in the Queenston Common section.

Now a fifth building is underway along the Brook near Harrison Street. Its foundations are so close to the stream as to require not only fill within the existing flood plain, but also, as with the first building, a long wall of heavy boulders at the Brook's edge to provide a firm base and to deflect the force of flood waters from that bank.

Foreseeing this, the Friends had asked the Mayor and Borough Council in April to withhold a building permit for Building "S" until assurances could be given that fill would not be needed there.

In spite of the State's original permit, the Friends' and others' formal protests, the State's orders of March 22 to remove the fill near the first four buildings, and the Borough's warning that it might withhold occupancy certificates, the developer chose to proceed as before.

To allow State and municipal permits and orders to be disregarded not only heightens the risk to the citizens (whose interests should come first) but makes them mere scraps of paper to be held in contempt by countless developers to come.

We urge you, both State and municipal officials, to require the Queenston developer to comply with the conditions of the State permit and the Borough Planning Board's site plan aproval (which was contingent upon the State's) as they apply to Building "S" and with the State's letter of March 22 for the others.

EXHIBIT OPENS FRIDAY

At Art Confederatin Gallery. The Art Confederation Gallery in Kingston will show a new series of oil paintings and serigraphs by Princeton artist Rex Goreleigh from Friday through August 25.

The series depicts the growth of the tobacco plant and is based on a true story. In 1939, when Mr. Goreleigh was teaching at the Palmer Memorial Institute in Bedalia, N. C., he was approached by a student who wanted private art lessons and offered to pay in tobacco instead of money.

Mr. Goreleigh, an avid pipe smoker, tried the tobacco and happily agreed. He soon discovered that it was the boy's mother who was the expert tobacco grower. Her tobacco was so good that it attracted thieves, and, at the height of its growth, she sood guard with a shotgun over her tobaeco plot.

The sketches that Mr. Goreleigh made them are now the basis of a series of eight paintings and seven serigraphs. There are 50 sets of serigraphs, and 20 will be sold individually.

Mr. Goreleigh was born in Pennsylvania, went to Europe in 1935, and during the depressinn painted murals in hospitals and prisons. He taught art at the Palmer Memorial Institute, the first black finishing school in the South, then became director of Soothside Community Art Center in Chieago. MALL SITES WEIGHED

By Busy Lawrence Planners. With at least three new shopping malls proposed, including two planned right across Route 1 from each other, and at least three new housing developments plus a medical center on the drawing boards, the Lawrence Township Planning Board has been one of the most active municipal agencies in the area.

So far this year the Planning Board has met 30 times. The 30th meeting, last Wednesday night, began at 8 pm and lasted until 1:45 next morning.

On that occasion, the planners approved the site plan for the first two phases of a 79-acre shopping mall proposed by Bristol Development Corp. of New York. The location of the proposed mall is on the west side of Route 1 at Province Line Road, directly behind the Colonial Diner.

Pending state approval of a drainage retention system for the site, the planners may apply for a building permit for the center, to be known as the Lawrence Princeton Mall.

That mall, meanwhile, is likely to be joined by another one planned by R. H. Macy, which has acquired 160 acres directly across Route 1, behind the Clarksville Motel.

Approval Likely. Macy representatives will meet in executive session with the Planning Board August 9 to review site plans. Ultimate approval of both malls is likely, since in neither case will a zoning variance be necessary.

A third proposed mall, that planned by Lawrence Mall Associates at Route 1 and Franklin Corner Road, next to Howard Johnson's, may encounter opposition. That site is not currently zoned for shopping centers.

Also at the July 25 really July 25 26 meeting, the Lawrence planners voted to recommend to Township Council the creation of a 30-acre zone for luxury apartments along Princeton Pike, south of Fackler Road.

Residents of the area voiced objections to the Planning Board's recommendation, saying that apartments would inflate land values, and be out of character in what they termed a "rural" portion of the Township.

Outcome Uncertain. If the Lawrence Council agrees with the residents' objections; the plans of Edward Bielas to build about 240 luxury apartments there would be thwarted. The outcome of the Council's debate could not be predicted.

The Planning Board in its marathon meeting also gave site plan approval for a medical arts building at the corner of Route 206 and Marlboro Road. That approval was pending the okay of drainage plans submitted to Township engineer Kenneth Huber.

The Board also gave occupancy approval to 26 of 53 homes in Wood Lane Estates, off Cold Soil Road. The developer, Feldco Construction Company, expects to start selling the houses by next month.

One other housing venture is on the Board's continuing agenda. The construction of $125,000 luxury condominiums has been proposed for a 52-acre site at Fackler Road and

WATERGATE RUNS SECOND

To Energy Crisis, Case Says

(The following report from Washington has been written by Clifford P. Case, Republican Senator from New Jersey.)

If the mail coming into my office is an accurate indicator, there are more people in New Jersey concerned about energy than any other subject.

And my mail indicates just how complex the energy situation is. It covers the whole range of problems from allocating existing fuel supplies to long-range problems of developing alternate sources of energy.

For the average person, the most obvious impact of the energy crisis during the summer months came at the gasoline station. A survey taken at the end of June showed that about two-thirds of the service stations checked in New Jersey were either rationing or cutting back on their hours of business.

Both dealers and distributors have been in touch with me to tell of cancelled contracts and inability to locate other sources of gasoline or heating oil.

Beginning in the spring, I joined a number of other Senators in working for a plan to allocate existing supplies of gasoline and other petroleum products on a mandatory basis. We succeeded in passing a bill giving the President authority to impose such controls.

Since the Administration has not used this authority, we have now obtained Senate approval of a bill establishing a mandatory fuel allocation program. If the House of Representatives supports our bill and it becomes law, it will insure a fair sharing of available supplies of fuel at equitable prices. In addition, it will establish specific priority for the maintenance of essential public services and for public transportation.

But equitable sharing of available supplies is not enough if there aren't sufficient supplies of energy to meet all our needs. And that is the prospect we face if we don't adopt a rational energy policy on a national basis now and if we fail to develop new sources of energy for the future.

As a starting point toward a national energy policy, I supported the successful effort to have the Federal Trade Commission investigate the whole oil industry structure and its effect on the current situation. It is my hope that this investigation can provide the necessary information — which has been lacking up to this point — to help formulate a comprehensive energy policy.

In addition, I have joined in sponsoring legislation that would authorize a broad energy research and development program. This program would be aimed at stimulating some of the most promising projects already underway in connection with potential new sources of energy.

We are fortunate, at this time of growing shortages of most sources of energy, to have abundant reserves of coal. The problem is how to convert coal into more useful forms of energy, particularly in light of the need to protect the environment.

At first individually and later with a group of other Senators, I urged doubling of the funds requested by the Administration for research into means of using coal to ease shortages of other fuels.

Among other things, the $103 million budget I am supporting for the Office of Coal Research will permit an increase from $1 million to $345 million for a pilot plant project at Princeton that has already demonstrated the technical feasibility of a process of converting coal into oil, gas and other products. What is needed now is to direct the technology toward early commercial production.

As a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, I have also worked for increased funds for research on solar energy, geothermal steam, and for shale oil research. No one of these actions will solve our energy problems. Indeed in the long term, the best hope for solving our energy problems appears to be development of fusion power. But research in all these areas is needed, as well as others, if we are to meet our energy needs in the future.

REGISTRATION OPEN

For YMCA Nursery School. The YMCA Nursery School for the fall term is taking registrations until August 17. Registration then will not be available until the normal YMCA fall registration which begins September 10.

Nursery School is offered two or three times a week from 9:15 to 11:30 with groupings of three year olds, and of four and five year olds. ART FROM SESAME ST.

On View at State Museum. "Art from Sesame Street," an exhibition of paintings and drawings sent to Sesame Street Magazine by children from all parts of North America, is being featured in the lower level galleries of the New Jersey State Museum. One of a continuing series of exhibitions devoted to children's art, the Sesame Street show will continue through September 16.

The 120-plus pieces of artwork on display represent the efforts of youngsters from 29 states, three Canadian provinces, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

Cooperating with the State Museum in the creation of the exhibition were Sesame Street Magazine and the Children's Television Workshop. The pictures were sent to the magazine in response to a request for imaginative drawings to appear on "Ernie and Bert's picture page," a regular monthly feature.

After the exhibition closes in September, the elements will be divided into three traveling exhibitions to visit schools, head start programs and community centers throughout the country. The Museum is open from 9 to 5 Monday through Saturday and from 2 to 5 Sundays on West State Street, Trenton.

REGULATIONS DEFINED

For Federal Assistance Program. No application for the new Federal Cash Assistance Program is necessary from people already receiving public assistance payments because they're 65 or over, or blind or disabled, it has been announced by Brendon W. Richards, social security district manager in Trenton.

Social security offices are now taking applications only from people who are not receiving assistance now, but believe they may be eligible for the new Federal Supplemental Security Income payment. The aim of the Federal program is to provide payment in case of need so that people over age 65 or blind or disabled, may receive a basic cash income beginning January 1974 of at least $130 a month for one person, and $195 per month for a couple.

"The Federal benefits are to be increased to $140 and $210 a month, respectively, beginning July 1974," Mr. Richards added.

Mr. Richards concluded with a final reminder that people receiving assistance now do not have to do anything about the Supplemental Security Income Program. They will receive more information and instructions later this year.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Here's a tough baseball question. Who holds the all-time big league record for batting in the most runs in one season! Answer is NOT Babe Ruth or Lou Gehrig or Jimmy Foxx or Ted Williams or any of the sluggers you usually think of first. Record is held by Hack Wilson who drove in 190 runs for the Cubs in 1930. Nobody has ever topped that.

Some baseball fans go a whole lifetime without ever seeing a triple play—but fans who attended a minor league game in Ponca City, Okla., June 28, 1957 had the unusual experience of seeing not only one triple play, but two of them —IN SUCCESSIVE INNINGS! The first triple play came in the last half of the first inning, and then there was another one in the top half of the second!

Ever wonder what's the toughest auto race course in the world! Well, there's one in Italy that covers 450 miles over narrow mountain roads, high up in the Alps, and a driver must negotiate a total of more than 8,500 corners on that course while at all times making sure he doesn't plunge off the mountain, and still drive fast enough to try to win the race!

Annual Championship Starts at Springdale

Play began last weekend in the annual Springdale Golf Club championship, with 16 members qualifying Saturday for the flight from which the 1973 titleist will be determined. Half the field was eliminated Sunday in 18 holes of match play.

Woodrow Wirsig was the medalist with a 74, two strokes lower than his best previous score. Bill Quackenbush, varsity golf coach, at 78, and Laddie Sanford at 79 were the only others to break 80 on the par 71, 6,333-yeard course.

Wirsig was unable to put two good rounds back to back, losing Sunday to Jack Mudge, 5 and 4. Former champion Kester Pierson was another one-sided victor Sunday, eliminating Jack Futurer, 4 and 3.

Two matches in the championship round went to the second extra hole before being decided. Bob Shillaber won from Blan C. Aldridge and Gil Spencer topped Joe Masick, 1 up on the 20th green.

Others to advance were defending champion Moore Gates, Jr., who ousted Alan Frank, Jr.; Quackenbush, who defeated Ross Shrader, 3 and 2; Bill Paine, a 1 up victor over Sanford; and Jim Litvak, who won, 3 and 2, from Bob Lewis.

In Saturday's second-round matches, the pairings will be: Mudge vs. Pierson, Paine vs. Gates, Quackenbush vs. Litvak and Shillaber vs. Spencer. The semi-final round will follow Sunday.

Three Other Flights. First Flight results:

Karl Pettit, Jr. defeated Charles Bardwell, 5 and 4; Lloyd Ferguson defeated Ralph Mather, 2 and 1; Asa Farr defeated Glen Eshbach; Roland Smith defeated Don Shaw; Jack Petrone defeated Dick Schoch, 5 and 4; George Barrie defeated Dick Dorian, 1 up

Second Flight: Bill Middlebrook defeated George Kellner; Ben Herrman defeated Kip Chace; Bob McCarthy defeated Paul Erler, 1 up; Pete Cahill defeated Lester Robbins, 6 and 5; Dean Chace defeated Alan Poole, 2 and 1; Bill Pearce defeated Ed Johnson, 4 and 3; Bob Olson defeated Jim Schwartz, 4 and 3. Kline Fulmer and Phil Shays were scheduled to play their second flight match before Saturday.

Third Flight: Bert Edmunds defeated B.E. Bergesen, 2 and 1; Nelson Case defeated Barry Foster, 2 and 1; Don Conner defeated Ted Tams, 3 and 2; Andy Cahill defeated Ken Ostrim, 3 and 2; Bill Starks defeated Bill Wilson, 2 up; Arthur Gardner defeated Bill Turgeon, 1 up, 19 holes; Norman Lewis defeated John Dwyer, 6 and 4. Jim McCarthy drew a bye

SHE'S MOSCOW-BOUND
Princetonian to Swim There

— Cathy Corcione of Long Branch, a senior at Princeton University, will be competing for the United States swimming team at the World University Games next month in Moscow.

Miss Corcione, a member of the 1968 Olympic Swim team, has set three intercollegiate records over the past two years, while leading the Princeton women's varsity to a 12-1 dual meet record, and third place finish in the 1973 Nationals. In that event she won both the 100-yard freestyle and the 100-yard butterfly, with times of 0:53.9 and 0:58.8 respectively.

Selection to the U.S. team at the World Games was the second major honor for Miss Corcione this summer. Earlier, she was named one of three women for induction in the Outstanding College Athletes of America Hall of Fame. In all, just 40 athletes from over 5000 nominations were selected for the honor.

ROMA ETERNA REPEATS
As Little League Champs.

Roma Eterna clinched its second straight championship in the Princeton Youth Baseball Little League last week with a crushing 17-1 victory over Post 76. Winning pitcher was Carl Nazzaro.

Engine Co. No. 1, which had stayed in contention by winning a pair last week, was upset, 11-2, by TASC. The Sportsmen's attack was led by Bobby Campbell's triple and two hits each by Mario Mangone and Norman Lewis. Dave Sally was the winning pitcher.

The Eagles won two in the final week to finish in a third-place tie with Post 76. Against the Elks, the Eagles used four pitchers: Andy Jensen, 12; Paul Geller, 9; Glen Clark, 10, who got the win; and their ace, Rick Johnson, who came in to get the last out with the bases loaded and preserve an 8-7 victory.

Leading hitters for the Eagles were John Neceda, who batted 3-for-3; Johnson, who collected four hits, and Aaron Gross, who stroked a triple. Andy Shepstein's three hits paced the losers.

The Eagles' Johnson and Woody Clark of Post 76 dueled for five innings before the Eagles eked out another one-run, 5-4 win. The deciding blow was a two-run homer by Johnson. Eagle catcher Andy Jensen contributed the key defensive play when he cut down a 76 runner attempting to steal.

For the Post 76 squad, John Cifelli tripled, while Tony Pittman and Steve Smith singled.

Hook & Ladder came on strong in the final week as the Firemen received a strong pitching performance from Alex Versfield who went the distance to blank Engine No. 3, 6-0. A two-run scoring double by Joe Lapsley and hits by Jay Sibson, Davy Pervin and Josh Miller produced the H&L runs.

In its last game of the season, H&L pitcher Al Kandell locked horns with Peter Sharnless of No. 1 in a tight pitcher's battle. After six innings, darkness forced play to stop with the score tied, 2-2. Kandell and Josh Miller combined for five hits to lead the H&L attack.

Keith Phox of No. 1 hit a home run and was robbed of another by a great catch by H&L centerfielder Kevin Cooke.

All Star Game Wednesday. The final events of the season will be the awarding of trophies and the annual game between the league champion (Roma) and an all-star team chosen from the remaining clubs. It will be held this year next Wednesday evening August 8 at the old PCD Field on Western Way.

The final standings:

A Look Back: Historic Mile Run Here in 1933

As far as many sport fans in Princeton elsewhere in the U.S. are concerned, the magic of the mile run cast its first spell in Palmer Stadium 40 years ago this summer.

On a sultry Saturday afternoon, one American and one New Zealander both broke the existing world's record for the distance. They did so in such dramatic fashion, racing down the stretch shoulder to shoulder for better than a hundred yards after more than three laps of mounting suspense, that the mile quickly achieved international stature as the top event in the world of track.

The competitors were Jack Lovelock, the pale, thin but wiry man from Down Under who was a pre-med student at Oxford, and Bill Bonthron, the compact bundle of energy whose way of life was and is today dedicated to an abhorrence of idleness.

The small crowd watching the finish had been fascinated by the kick that each man provided, seemingly as fast as two runners competing in one of the sprints. But as the next event was called, and no announcement as to the time was made the historic mile was briefly forgotten.

In the infield, however, meet officials were huddling far longer than is normal for a comparison of watches, and one was fascinatedly thumbing through a record book. Finally, through a megaphone, in the era before a public address system had been installed, came the announcement:

"Results of the mile run: won by Lovelock of Oxford, 4:07.6; second, Bonthron of Prinmeton, 4:08.7. Both times are under the existing world's record of 4.09.2, set in 1931 by Jules Ladoumege of France!"

Later in the decade, the Glenn Cunningham, the Gene Venzkes, the Archie San Romanis and others who paved the way to eventual breaking of the four minute barrier came along. Palmer Stadium's fine track was the site of more world's records, as the now-legendary Princeton Invitation Meet flourished briefly.

But in the summer of 1933, the mile came of age in the race that saw an American break the world's mark for the first time since John Paul Jones had set a record of 4:14 in 1912.

Both Lovelock and Bonthron continued to run after they graduated from college before ending their careers. Lovelock was killed in a Nw York sub way accident in 1949.

Bonthron, a Princeton resident for many years, lives with his wife, Jane, on The North Road. He retired last month as the senior partner in the accounting firm of Price, Waterhouse.

Despite second-place finish, Bill Bonthron broke world's record for mile run in Princeton-Cornell vs. Oxford-Combridge meet held here 40 years ago this summer.

Women's Teams at Princeton Highly Successful

An overall varsity record of 88-20-1 and a winning percentage of .819 in three years. That's the story of Princeton's women's varsity intercollegiate program which began in 1971.

The program started with tennis and has increased steadily under the leadership of Merrily Dean, recently appointed Associate Director of Athletics for Physical Education and Women's Programs. In three seasons, no Princeton women's team has ever lost to its Yale counterpart.

The tennis team owns the most spectacular record. It has a 22-0 dual meet mark, and has won three straight Eastern and Middle States titles, as well as two Middle Atlantic Championships.

The squash team is almost as successful with a 17-1 dual meet record and two consecutive national championships. The swim team has a 12-1 record in dual competition, a third and then a second place in the Eastern Championships and a third, this past winter, in the Nationals.

Crew and field hockey have also enjoyed a high level of success. The women rowers are 14-2 in regattas, were Eastern Champions in 1972 and finished third at the national competition this past season.

In field hockey, Princeton has two winning seasons in as many tries, posting a 12-5-1 mark in regular season play, and winning the Big Three championship. Basketball had a losing season its first year but posted a 6-3 mark last winter. Lacrosse began operations last spring, finished at 2-4, but has a bright future.

This past year, junior varsity teams were started in field hockey, basketball and tennis, and the result was an overall record of 12-6.

MINORITY JOBS SOUGHT

Princeton's Joint Commission on Civil Rights this week set in motion an ambitious plan aimed at its top priority goal of the year, equal opportunity employment.

The Commission has mailed out questionnaires to 500 area employers, and also is making available hundreds of employment surveys for persons out of work or seeking better jobs.

Responses to the surveys will be tabulated in a skills bank, which will then be matched against lists of job openings made available by the employers. The bank is aimed primarily at improving the job opportunities of minorities and women.

Several new employment strategies will be used by the skills bank, which was outlined in a Monday morning press conference with Joan E. Hill, executive director, and several other Commission members.

The employment survey for example, contains no questions that could produce discriminatory information. No age, sex, marital status, or number of children blanks. Not even height and weight.

Job Sharing. Persons interested in employment are asked if their current job makes the best use of their abilities, or if they could be doing something better. Prospective workers also are asked if they are willing to be trained, and what type of training they feel they need.

Employers are asked if they would be interested in the concept of "job sharing," whereby two part-time employees would split the duties normally required of one regular person. A boon for women with children, thought Mrs. Hill, since one might work mornings and the other afternoons.

"Employers have found job sharing very beneficial," said Lynne Darcy, a Commission member. "They get two people who are both alert and interested in the job, instead of one person killing time in the morning and then exhausted from 4 to 5 on the afternoon."

But whether Princeton employers generally would be eager to participate in the program or would be quick to volunteer the other information requested by the Commisson was uncertain.

State of Flux. Employers also were asked if they would supply lists of job openings on a regular basis to the Commission; if they would train new hires to meet entry level requirements; if they would train a person for employment elsewhere; or if they would be willing to have a newly employed person be trained elsewhere.

"We're kind of groping our way along here," said Max D. Blumenfeld, a member of the Commission. "What we do depends partly on the level of unemployment and underemployment. It also depends on the level of cooperation from the employers.

The Commission voiced hope that the participation would be high. "I know the difficulty people have meeting affirmative action programs," said Mr. Blumenfeld. "We hope to fill a service, especially for the large employers supervised by the Federal government."

Commissioner Darcy said that the service would be useful in meeting the Federal regulation requiring employers to contact minority employment representatives.

Princeton Only. The skills bank will process employment surveys from Borough and Township residents only. "We just can't spread the program to all of Mercer County," said Mr Blumenfeld. Surveys will be available at Borough and Township halls, Princeton Public Library, the YMCA and the National Organization of Women Office on Witherspoon Street.

"We'll handle every job grade from janitor on up," said Mrs. Hill.

Persons seeking jobs will not have direct access to the job listings. Mrs. Hill will screen applicants before referring them to specific opportunities.

"We want to make sure we match the right persons with the right jobs," she said. "We want to build confidence with the employers."

Mrs. Hill has conducted a job placement service on an informal basis since May when she began her work as executive director.

SECOND PATENT GRANTED

For Waterproofing Cable. Ira B. Goldman, Millstone River Apartments, has been granted his second U. S. patent, on a new process for waterproofing telephone cable he co-invented at Western Electric's Engineering Research Center here.

The patent relates to a method of forcing waterproofing compound between strands of multi-strand telephone cable, during cable manufacture. Mr. Goldman holds a Ph.D. degree in chemical engineering and is a member of the research staff at ERC.

ADR SALES SET RECORD

Last 3 Quarters Profitable. Applied Data Research, Inc., a computer software company with its principal offices on State Road 206, has reported record operating revenues of $5,089,129 for the six months ended June 30.

Net income for the period was $136,527 or 12 cents per share. For the comparable period in 1972, operating revenues totaled $4,425,831 and net earnings were $94,103 or 10 cents per share. Operating revenues for the three months ended June 30 totaled $2,686,920, which is also a record high. Net earnings for the second quarter were $80,240 or 7 cents per share.

Commenting on these results, John R. Bennett, President, said that the company has now shown improved profits for the last three quarters. In each of these periods, software product sales exceeded $1,000,000.

Mr. Bennett also said that he is pleased with the performance of STAR, the Company's hardware product, which has accounted for sales in excess of $500,000 during the first half of 1973.

DEPOSITS INCREASE

At Nassau Savings. Walter Foster, President of Nassau Savings and Loan Association announced that deposits for the first six months increased over $2,600,000.

Mr. Foster attributed this to an effort of families in the Princeton area to save a substantial portion of their expendable income. He also said that the new Princeton Junction Office, under the management of Carl Applegate, contributed greatly to the increase in deposits.

Nassau Savings and Loan's two offices are at 194 Nassau Street, Princeton, and 44 Hightstown Road in Princeton Junction. Hours are: Monday through Friday 9 to 4 and Friday evenings 5 to 7.

RED STILL UNDEFEATED

In Summer Lacrosse League. An 11-0 rout of the Blue team gave Red its fifth victory against no losses in the Summer Lacrosse League last week, and consequently the league championship.

The final night of play was scheduled for this Wednesday (August 1) with Red set to go against Green and Blue vs. Navy. Green is in second place with a 3-2 mark, and the final games will not change the standings.

Jim Kopliner and Noel Belli led Red's attack with three goals apiece, as the winners scored four in the first period to wrap it up early. John McCullough tallied twice, and Alan Fitzpatrick, Chip Hall and Dave Mohr, all once.

In the other contest, Navy pumped in three goals in the final period in a come-from-behind 6-3 triumph. Leading the scoring with two goals each were Bob Turgeon and Jim Donaldson. Joe Middleness and Brian Sullivan each had one. Bill Mills had a hat trick to lead the Green scoring.

In an all-star game played Sunday, Princeton lost to a Harrisburg, Pa. team 8-7. Harrisburg jumped out to a 1-1 lead in the first period and Princeton could never quite catch up. Hall and Jeff Mohr had two goals apiece.

NASSAU ENDS 4-4

In Dual Swim Meets. The Nassau Swim Club finished its dual meets of the season with a record of 4-4 after defeating the Valley Club of Flemington 162-146 in an exciting race Monday.

Double winners and members of a winning relay team were Li Van Horn in the 8 and under girls 25 yd backstroke, 8 and under girls 25 yd freestyle and the 8 and under girls 100 yd. medley relay with teammates Yuka Manabe, Cathy Langridge and Carrie Fallon; and Marc Coutin who won the 12 and under boys 50 yd. breaststroke, 12 and under boys 100 yd. individual medley, and was a member of the 12 and under boys 100 yd. medley relay with teammates Paul Sally, John Keaney and Steve Sally.

Other double winners were Mary Bolster, Jean Rosenbluth, Carrie Kidd, Abby Wdson, Barb Van Horn, Charley Bolster, and Paul and John Keaney.

Other winners were Nina Jahn, Val Van Horn, and Paul Curschman.

Winning relays were 8 and under girls 100-yd. medley relay with Yuka Manabe, Li Van Horn, Cathy Langridge and Carrie Fallon, 10 and under girls 100-yd. medley relay with Sue Danielson, Barb Van Horn, Beth Alberts and Abby Harris, 10 and under boys 100-yd medley relay with Doug Andres, Paul Sally, Charley Bolster and Paul Keaney, 12 and under boys 200-yd. medley relay with Marc Coutin, Paul Sally, John Keaney and Steve Sally, 17 and under girls 200-yd. medley relay with Abby Wilson, Deanne Danielson, Carrie Kidd and Dorothy Dyson.

PLAYOFF SPOT CLINCHED

By Center Sports. With the post season play-offs rapidly approaching, Center Sports clinched a place in the playoffs in spectacular fashion by defeating 1st place Ivy Inn, 11-10, in last weeks PRD Softball action.

Center bit well from the start scoring six runs in the first two innings to open up a 6-0 lead. The six-run surge was spearheaded by Jack Petrone Jr. who blasted a three-run homer in the second inning on his way to a 4-4 night at the plate.

Ivy Inn was far from dead, however, as it struck back in the next four innings to build what seemed to be an insurmountable lead.

Led by strong hitting Albie Toto and Tom Devito, Ivy scored 10 runs in the third through sixth innings to take a 10-6 lead into the last of the sixth.

Center came to bat and put together one of the most dramatic rallies of the season. Hits by Frank Caponi, Steve Peters, Mike Guadagno, Joe Maffo and Petrone set the stage for Bobby Sweeney's single which drove in what proved to be the winning run.

Ivy had a much easier time with Conte Staats who has yet to put together a hitting attack against strong opposition. C-S again looked weary as both defensive lapses and poor hitting made the game strictly no contest.

Ivy Inn blasted 15 hits on the way to the 10-3 victory. Bucky Boccanfuso led the Big Green with a 3-3 performance including a towering home run; one of the longest shots of the season.

PCR came up with a record 11 runs in the first inning against Andy's Tavern to win 16-6. Bob Ellis led off the first inning with a home run and this seemed to set the stage for the 11 run inning. Pete Ferrara went 5-5 at the plate for PCR.

Conte - Staats secured its playoff position with a victory over PIASC, 11-2. C-S picked up three runs in the first inning on hits by Mark Hassan, Wes Cawley, Jack Roberts, Bill Staats and Scott Anderson and was never in trouble after that.

Bill Staats blasted three hits in as many times at bat including a two run homer in the 3rd. Frank Cawley pitched a fine game limiting PIASC to just 6 hits.

The standings:

ASSISTANT APPOINTED

To Township Staff. A 22-year-old graduate of Syracuse University's Maxwell School of Public Administration has been named assistant administrator in Princeton Township.

Girard C. Miller began his duties in the $10,300-a year position July 23. He will report to Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini.

"Our plan is to involve Mr. Miller in every aspect of Township government," said Mr. Nini. "I've been wearing three hats since I also serve as clerk and treasurer. He will lighten the load."

Mr. Miller, who graduated in three years from the University of Washington, has studied governmental fiscal operations, effects of governmental services on the elderly, and various analytical techniques.

Mr. Nini thought that one of Mr. Miller's first assignments would be to work with Councilman Abbot L. Moffat on a possible revision of Township budgeting appointments.

Housing Issue. Mr. Miller's appointment was announced Tuesday at a press conference in which Mayor Jay Bleiman distributed summaries of a Mercer County Freeholders report on low-income housing.

The report, which asks that municipalities in the county join to form a Mercer County Public Housing Authority to implement low-cost housing plans, will be discussed at next Monday's Township Committee meeting.

RESTAURANT USE DENIED

By Zoning Board. The application by Robert Poitras of Herrontown Road for a use variance to convert the bowling alley at 138 Nassau Street to combined restaurant-retail use was denied last week by the Borough Zoning Board.

The board ruled that the applicant had failed to demonstrate that the property could not be used for purposes for which variances were not needed. Half of the building is located in the central business district, half in a residential-office zone.

Pointing out that parking in the immediate area was a problem both in the day and during the evening, the board commented that a restaurant entails a large turnover of customers which would involved more people and more cars.

The building occupies more than 95 percent of the lot area, and attorney Gordon Strauss, who represented Mr. Poitras, has requested a complete waiver of the required 46 off-street parking spaces.

The application was opposed by Murray Abelson, owner of Allen's Children's Center 134-136 Nassau Street.

Mr. Abelson, who with his wife comprised the entire audience, told the board that he was opposed to "anything That will contribute to our current parking and traffic problems."

He had tried for the past ten years, he said, to be open at night. Every time he attempted it it just didn't work, he continued, because of the traffic. "There is no parking on Nassau Street after 7:30." It was no problem during the day, he added.

Mr. Allen was also concerned about the placement and disposal of garbage that a "restaurant of that size" (232 seats) would generate.

Restaurant Need Supported. Princeton realtor Ridgely Cook testified as a witness for the applicant. He posted a chart picturing the restaurants in the central business district: Nassau Inn, Harry's Luncheonette, the Grotto, King's Court, Princeton Tea Garden, Colonial Restaurant, Lahiere's, A&S Luncheonette, Buxton's, P.J.'s Pancake House and the Annex. Two restaurants — Renwicks and Viedt's — he said, had gone out of business.

"Actually, in the last ten years, we have gained one small stand-up luncheonette — A&S — and lost Renwicks and Viedt's. Consequently, there has been a growth in Princeton but a reduction in restaurants. From a use point of view there is a tremendous need for another restaurant."

David Burrough, owner of the Princeton Recreation Lanes, told the Board that he had been trying to sell the property for the past four years. He has owned it for more than 20.

In that time, he stated, he had received "one feeble request" to take it over as a bowling alley. The rest have been offers to take it over as a restaurant. All say they are not interested in anything less than 24 lanes. He has six alleys downstairs and six upstairs.

Mr. Poitras' contract to purchase the property was conditional on receiving favorable action from the Zoning Board.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON: Two members of the Teague & Hinds team in the Princeton Adult Softball League are outfielder Richard McGee III (right) and his father, Dick McGee Jr., the team's catcher. The elder McGee said that his son has been an avid follower of the team ever since it was formed nine years ago. Both, however, will be forced to watch the upcoming playoffs from the sidelines. Teague & Hinds, the defending league champions for the past two years, failed for the first time to finish among the top four.

"Yes" to Sub-Division. In a second case, the board approved the application of Arthur P. Morgan to sub-divide his large lot at 18 Hibben Road for the purpose of constructing a smaller house in the rear portion. The board granted him a lot width variance of 27 feet.

Attorney A.C. Reeves Hicks pointed out that a variance was sought to preserve the intergrity of a below grade formal garden in the rear that formed a natural dividing point. None of the lots, he added, on Hibben Road are conforming as far as the required 125-foot width at the building line is concerned.

The lone opposition to the application came in the form of a telegram from Mr. and Mrs. Allen G. Shenstone, 111 Mercer Street, vacationing in Nova Scotia, who objected not only to the proposed construction of a second house but to the timing of the application in summer when most residents would be away.

It has front-wheel drive like the Cadillac Eldorado. And about the same headroom and legroom as the Rolls-Royce Silver Shadow.

The name of this remarkable automobile is the Audi 100LS. And what's even more remarkable about it is its price tag.

It's a lot less than you'd expect to pay for that many great cars.

Real Estate Happenings

by BOB SUYDAM

Will Rogers, of great fame for his dry humor and pithy sayings, once said: "Buy land—they ain't making any more of that stuff!" Land is a limited commodity, and land values in America are on the increase. This means that opportunities to invest in land are also opportunities for investments that will be both solid and profitable. Whatever you are most interested in, whether it be in raw land, farmland, vacant lots, recreational or industrial land, now is the time to buy!

There are many forms of real estate investments available through WALTER B. HOWE, 1 Palmer Square, Princeton (924-0095), Pennington (737-3301) and W. Windsor (799-1100). In business since 1885. Homes . . . all sizes, shapes and prices.
